

Shape your neighborhood's public spaces!

PILOT PROJECT SURVEY Downtown

On June 23nd, the City hosted a neighborhood meeting for Downtown residents at the Edmonds Waterfront Center to discuss public space activation opportunities in the Downtown area. This initiative is part of a citywide effort called Reimagining Neighborhoods and Streets, to consider how we can optimize our streets and public spaces to support community development and local businesses.

Based on meeting input, participants voted for a community Yardfest - a temporary "pavement-to-yard" on Main Street between 5th and 6th Ave. If the majority of survey respondents support this idea, the City will work with a core group to implement it.

Please vote on this idea by taking the Downtown survey, available at the QR code or link below.

What's an “activation?”

An activation is an intentional improvement made to an urban space to enhance social cohesion and economic development.

Public art, farmers' markets, and outdoor movies are all examples of activations. Activations can be temporary, or more permanent.

How can I get involved?

If the project is supported by the neighborhood, a core planning team will be assembled to assist with implementation. Please indicate your interest on the survey if you'd like to help make this pilot project a success for all!
